The only reason he gave for the rash act was in a note addressed to his brother in Kentucky, saying that he had nothing to live for. His condition is much improved, and he will recover.

premiums at various fairs in the State, where the fair management supplements an equal amount. For the State Fair at Raleigh, $200 for the best and greatest variety and most artistically arranged collective agricultural exhibit, and $100 for the second best, and for county or local agricultural fairs $100 for the best exhibit of the same character and fifty dollars for the second best, and also a like provision for the State Colored Fair at Raleigh.

For the exhibit of North Carolina resources and products provided for last night by the $5,000 appropriation by the State Board of Agriculture, there is to be a knock-down or portable house constructed, this to be loaded on cars, with the exhibits to be installed and conveyed from place to place. The details of the plan have not been worked out, but one feature will be that in the stead of windows the house will have openings with transparent illuminated views of North Carolina scenery and industries. Both Miss Lawrence and Mrs. Puryear were on the teaching force of the school here last year, and their re-election is due to the high regard in which they are held by the public here.

The new members of the faculty come very highly recommended as teachers of experience and ability.

The Spencer school will open this fall in a handsome new building, which is now being erected at a cost of $12,000, exclusive of a valuable site, consisting of an entire block, in the center of town, donated by the Southern Railway Company for school purposes.

SPENCER, N. C., June 5.—Telegrains received here from Washington yesterday and to-day, stating that the conference amendment to the rate bill now before Congress practically prohibits railroads from issuing passes to their comployes and their families, aroused much interest on the part of Spencer people. Many messages were promptly sent to North Carolina representatives imploring them to protest against the adoption of the measure and asking for the protection of railroad employes in the matter of passes. A message from Senator Simmons over the long distance phone states that there is yet some

ADVERTISING WONDERS.

A Great Popular Educator and Promoter of Happiness.

Among the any marveis of this marvelous age there is none more striking and none more characteristic than the art of advertising as developed in modern times. We talk much about the wonders of the telephone and the phonograph, about the astonishing expansion of railfort the telephone and the phonograph, roads and telegraphy, but here we have an industry as remarkable for its extension and as wide and varied in its applications as anything of man's device in any era of the world's history. When there is brought into consideration the vast amount of mency expended in advertising in our day, the novel and irgenious methods employed and the expert skill and artistic talent engaged in the business, one may begin to realize what a wide field has been opened here for some of the highest and most useful forms of human endeavor.

With all its abuses—and they are not aftew—it remains true that advertising is one of the greatest of popular educators and one of the chief promoters of human happiness and prosperity. And there are yet many ways in which it may be extended to the still greater benefit of the world.

No good reason exists why the Promoter of Happiness.
